Blog on Innovation in Mission

This blog started from the publishing of a book called Innovation in Mission. The idea is to have a conversation on innovation and how to manage it. The site looks like a good source to look into new developments. 📄 innovationinmission.blogspot.com

Mobile Phones and Innovation

Thanks to Keith F for the following items. Nokia researcher Jan Chipchase's investigation into the ways we interact with technology has led him from the villages of Uganda to the insides of our pockets. He has crucial insights about how people adopt technology. How will our communications strategies be influenced by what he describes? 📄 www.ted.com/talks/lang/eng/jan_chipchase_on_our_mobile_phones.html

Social Entrepreneurship

The University Network for Social Entrepreneurship works with professors and researchers, practitioners, and students to develop social entrepreneurship as a vocation and carry its principles into other disciplines and sectors. It is designed to be a resource hub and an action-oriented discussion forum to expand social entrepreneurship education and participation around the world. 📄 www.universitynetwork.org

Development Studies

The Institute of Development Studies is a leading global organisation for research, teaching and communications on international development. In all of our work, IDS aims to challenge convention and to generate fresh ideas that foster new approaches to development policy and practice. Such problem-focused thinking requires a commitment to multidisciplinary, not just within social sciences, but across research, teaching and communications.

Faith and Globalization

The impact of religious faith is profound in a world where political, economic, and social spheres are increasingly interconnected. Intentional and sustained reflection on the crucial issues of faith and globalization can lead to the kind of reconciliation and peaceful coexistence that life in the 21st century demands.

As a way of considering these essential questions, Yale, in collaboration with the Tony Blair Faith Foundation, has launched the Faith and Globalization Initiative.

This three-year effort will explore a variety of topics and issues in the classroom, in formal lectures and informal conversation, and through research, speeches, conferences, and the internet.
